Gate Attendants

Gate attendants greet visitors, provide directions, and keep a count of guests as they enter the monument.

"I have always been interested in history, but I decided I wanted to volunteer at the Memorial after my initial visit. The story of the Bedford Boys embedded within the overall story of the D-Day invasion is so moving and important to our history that I felt I wanted to be a part of telling that story and keeping the memory and the sentiment alive. The reason I continue being a volunteer is because the story remains compelling and is in need of being told and remembered."

"I started working in the gift shop soon after the Memorial opened. I have had the privilege of meeting a lot of veterans along with visitors from many different places. I have enjoyed getting to know the staff and volunteers. I also enjoy helping out with special events."

"The D-Day Memorial. It is a special place to me. It is a privilege and honor to serve there. I now volunteer as a gate greeter and enjoy meeting national and international visitors. Our veterans have a special place in all our hearts. It has been rewarding to make many lasting friendships and memories through the years. I feel I play a small part in keeping the history of D-Day alive especially to the younger generation. I can truly say I love volunteering!"
